Risks

Since the fund concentrates its assets in global real estate securities, an investment in the fund will be significantly impacted by the performance of the real estate markets. Risks of investing in REITs are similar to those associated with direct investments in real estate securities, including falling property values due to increasing vacancies, declining rents resulting from economic, legal, tax or political developments, lack of liquidity, limited diversification and sensitivity to certain economic factors such as interest rate changes and market recessions. Foreign securities involve special risks, including currency fluctuations, lower liquidity, political and economic uncertainties, and differences in accounting standards. Some global securities may represent small- and medium-sized companies, which may be more susceptible to price volatility and less liquid than larger companies.

NOT FDIC INSURED • MAY LOSE VALUE • NO BANK GUARANTEE

Dividend income that the fund receives from U.S. REITs will generally not be treated as qualified dividend income and therefore not be eligible for reduced rates of taxation. Shareholders will be notified following year-end regarding the final composition of all distributions via Form 1099-DIV.

FTSE EPRA/NAREIT Developed Real Estate Index (net of dividend withholding taxes) is an unmanaged market-weighted total return index which consists of many companies from developed markets whose floats are larger than $100 million and derive more than half of their revenue from property-related activities. You cannot invest directly in an index, and index performance does not reflect the deduction of any fees or expenses.

Percentages may differ from data in the Fund's financial statements due to the effect of fair value pricing.
